BATTLE FOR TUNISIA UNDER WAY IN AIR

Meandering Along the Main Stem

By WASH FAYETTE

The few people who now are driving at a high rate of speed under the premise that "it is my tires I'm wearing out" will be the first to raise an awful howl when they are left stranded along a country road with a tire blown out. They'll say everyone else is wrong because it will be impossible for them to get a tire. Maybe those imposters will believe that some of us who are driving the prescribed 35-miles-per-hour (and it really is hard for this writer to keep at that speed) should give our tires to them. A check-up with law-enforcing agencies, however, shows that most of the driving public is showing "horse-sense" and is observing the speed limit. It will not lose by its action.

There are at least two men in Washington C. H. who have been at Oran, in Algeria, which was captured Tuesday by the Yanks in their smashing offensive along the Mediterranean Sea and Atlantic Coast in Africa.

They are Howard (Dutch) Fogle, well known South North Street grocer and member of the Selective Service Board, and Walter Hutton, co-proprietor of The Club, on Main Street.

Both men were enroute home from France after having served with the American Expeditionary Force in the first World War and were aboard French vessels which put into Oran for fuel and supplies.

A great many of you remember Frank W. Abke, to whom is due a large part of the credit for locating the Sunlight Creameries plant in Washington C. H. some 25 years ago.

Frank left here some 21 years ago, went to Indianapolis, where he and his associates established the Standard Nut Margarine Company, and built a large plant which is still running at top speed, turning out margerine, peanut butter, salads and other products which are very much in demand.

Frank and his partner not only own and operate the plant, but have large plants of a similar nature in Dallas, Texas, and Los Angeles, California.

In other words Frank has made good in a big way, and it pleases me immensely for he was always a hard worker, and had big ideas.

Sometime ago Frank bought a tract of land just outside of Indianapolis and built a large and attractive home upon it, so his lawn covers 13½ acres, and he has the place beautifully landscaped.

Frank came here as manager of the old Fayette County Creamery which was located on Columbus Avenue and Market Street about where the church stands near the East End School building.

When his associates sought to establish a million dollar creamery here, I agreed to help him, and together we contacted Captain Charles Allen, obtained the Sales Pavilion and grounds at a reasonable price, and then obtained guarantee of a railroad siding which local business men financed to the amount of around $4,800.

Frank was associated with the Sunlight Creameries here for a number of years, entered the U. S. Service in the World War, and when he returned, had ideas of greater things, and has carried them out very successfully.

OHIO COYOTE PACK FINALLY WIPED OUT

How It Got There Remains Mystery, However

COLUMBUS, Nov. 12—(AP)—A coyote pack that plagued farmers in three counties has been destroyed, but officials still would like to know how the animals got to Ohio.

L. C. Bailey of the State Conservation and Natural Resources Division said yesterday that Game Protector Irvin Patrick of Circleville and John Wilson of Waterville had eliminated the pack which killed chickens, turkeys, ducks and sheep in the "oak openings" area of Lucas, Henry and Wood counties.

Patrick trapped four of the coyotes—a female and three pups—and Wilson shot a fifth.

LONGER HOURS ARE URGED BY SENATE PROBERS

Administration Criticized Sharply by Committee in Report on Investigation

Payment of Overtime Wages In War Bonds Among Recommendations

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—(AP)—The Senate Defense Investigating committee, strongly advising against compulsory manpower controls, today recommended lengthening of the work week to 48 hours with any additional overtime to be paid in government bonds.

In a report sharply critical of the administration's failure to evolve a comprehensive problem, the committee urged that the problem of channeling sufficient workers into war industries be approached by government direction of employers' hiring policies "rather than in coercive measures applied to the individual employe."

"Suspending the 40-hour week in non-war industries, with the proviso that employers be permitted to pay overtime to the extent paid in 1942, should be studied as a possible answer to severe labor shortages in our civilian industries," the report said.

Declaring the War Manpower Commission had failed in its seven months' existence to formulate a national program, the committee said it was impossible to determine until questions of policy had been settled whether any legislation was needed.

"In the absence of any overall policy and program for mobilization of manpower, the subcommittee on manpower has decided that it would be a mistake for Congress to even consider passage of any drastic compulsory legislation."

The committee made these other major recommendations:

The balancing, under one director, of the manpower needs for the armed forces, military production and essential civilian enterprise; elimination of recruiting by the armed services and continuance of volunteering only when approved by the Selective Service and local manpower committees; deferment from active service of essential workers who remain on jobs.

Further reductions in civilian production, expansion of training programs, increases in the productivity of those now employed by suspension of hampering work rules and drastic reductions or entire elimination of work relief employment.

Mediterranean Area Becomes War's Main Battleground

Initialed on this Central Press war map are the main areas of activity in the all-out struggle between Allied and Axis forces for control of the Mediterranean area, now become the war's most important battleground. A—Gibraltar—Britain's great fortress at the Mediterranean's eastern gateway, a rallying point for United Nations' forces. B—Heretofore Unoccupied France now invaded by German troops. C—Corsica, strategic French Mediterranean island—ordered seized by Hitler. D—Tunisia, French colony separating Algeria, now in Allied hands, and Italian Libya, invaded by the British Eighth Army—has been invaded by German airborne troops in a desperate attempt to block the Allied forces in their North African eastward drive.

FRENCH FLEET TO FIGHT BACK IF NAZIS TRY TO TAKE IT OVER WHILE IT REMAINS AT TOULON

Allies Dashing in from East and West To Close Pincers on Tunisia Where Axis Forces Are Reported To Have Rushed By Plane—Hitler Overruns France To Get Troops Set For Feared Allied Invasion Through Italy

LONDON, Nov. 12—(AP)—The air battle for Tunisia was under way today, with Allied bombers getting in the first blows, while German and Italian forces rushed to battle positions in southern France and Corsica in desperate fear of American invasion of Europe from the south.

Thus were the battle lines drawn in the western Mediterranean:

1—French naval chiefs pledged their Toulon battleship squadron to "resist all aggression" and their move kept the Toulon naval base out of Hitler's hands—for the time being at least.

2—Long-range two-engined RAF fighters, striking presumably from Malta, attacked the airdrome of El Aouina at Tunis yesterday, destroying 19 planes and damaging that many more—all identified definitely as German Junkers, Focke-Wulf and Fiesler Storch models despite Axis denials that German or Italian air forces were in Tunisia.

Yanks Sweeping Toward Tunisia

3—United States troops under Maj. Gen. Charles Ryder and the British First Army under Gen. K. A. N. Anderson were reported sweeping close to Tunisia from the West for a test with the Axis, and they were expected at the Tunisian border today. It was disclosed in London that Anderson commanded this thrust, with Ryder acting under his orders.

4—The Italians announced the occupation of Corsica, French Mediterranean Island which Rome long has coveted, and said their troops had passed Nice and reached the Rhone in their part of the occupation of southern France.

Nazi Panzers Reach Mediterranean Coast

The Germans announced that three Panzer divisions had reached the French Mediterranean coast—but it became apparent quickly that something had gone wrong with the Nazi Fuehrer's scheme to take over the Toulon fleet, three battleships and a powerful flotilla of cruisers, destroyers and light craft.

Broadcasts from the French radio at Vichy and dispatches transmitted by Havas, official French news agency, announced: "Inasmuch as French naval chiefs at Toulon have pledged themselves to resist all aggression, German authorities have decided that Toulon shall be a separate region. Toulon will not be occupied, and French warships will be safeguarded."

Hitler Moves Cautiously Toward French Fleet

Since virtually the only safeguard for the long idle fleet appeared to be its option to steam across the Mediterranean to join the Allies if Germans moved into Toulon, it seems very likely that only such a threat had kept the Nazis out.

Havas, now German controlled, added that Hitler, himself, decided that the Germans should not move into this one bit of France—but even this dispatch despaired of any effort to explain the Fuehrer's magnanimity over this point.

Berlin broadcasts quoted German dispatches from Vichy saying the French radio had appealed for all French merchant ships to call immediately at the nearest Mediterranean port of France. It gave no indication what response the appeal had brought. French sailors, of course, know that Vichy broadcasts now are German.

French Fleet Could Give Axis Hot Battle

The Germans moved within 30 miles of Toulon by occupying the port of Marseille. A Vichy broadcast said a strong column of Germans marched down the famous Rue Cannebiere, which leads to the waterfront, shortly after noon.

An authoritative source in London said at noon (7 A. M. Eastern War Time) that the British had no information of any movement of French fleet units from Toulon.

He pointed out, however, that such a movement might have occurred without the knowledge of the Allies. He said it would be possible for the warships—ranging from battleships to sloops—to put up a good fight if the personnel chose to resist Axis attempts to board them.

Even as the prospect of a mighty air struggle took shape across the narrows of the Mediterranean, an Allied headquarters spokesman said there was no sign of a reply from the Bey of Tunis to President Roosevelt's request that Allied troops be allowed in the country, other than a Paris radio report that the Bey had granted such permission.

The Paris radio denied Axis forces had landed in Tunisia, but this denial was dismissed here as false.

Asked whether there was any information about Dakar, the Senegalese capital on the bulge of West Africa, an Allied spokesman said grimly: "I think they are in a rather hopeless position." He refused to amplify the remark.

He asserted the Allied situation everywhere in French North Africa is "extremely satisfactory."

The RAF attack upon the Tunisia Airdrome was coupled with a continued advance by Lieut. Gen. B. L. Montgomery's Eighth Army in Egypt and bombing of Axis bases in Sardinia.

These blows were aimed at German-Italian positions on the flanks of Tunisia, upon whose ports and airfields the Axis is apparently basing its attempt to halt the Allied conquest of North Africa's shores.

The German-Italian invasion of unoccupied France was reported in Axis broadcasts to have been virtually completed and the Itai-

Thanksgiving Proclamation By President

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—(AP)—In an unusual proclamation, President Roosevelt called upon the American people today to observe both Thanksgiving and New Year's as days of prayer.

Devoid of the "whereases" of customary presidential proclamations, this one started with a quotation from the 92nd Psalm: "It is a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord."

After reciting the 23rd Psalm, Mr. Roosevelt said in his proclamation:

"Inspired with faith and courage by these words, let us turn again to the work that confronts us in this time of national emergency; in the armed services and the merchant marine; in factories and offices; on farms and in the mines; on highways, railways and airways; in other places of public service to the nation; and in our homes."

TOO MANY WORKING FOR GOVERNMENT, IS CHARGE OF C. OF C.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 12.—(AP)—George B. Chandler, executive vice president of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, asserted today a million federal employes could be transferred to military service or war production.

Urging the government cut its manpower needs to an "absolute minimum," Chandler said in his report to the chamber's annual convention, "There probably are more than one-half as many federal employes sitting at desks in Washington and elsewhere, as there are enrolled in the army."

Chandler said in Canada there were six men in the armed services for every one in civilian government service "whereas in the United States there are only two in the armed service for every employe in the governmental service."

ALLIED ATTACKS ARE INTENSIFIED

Yank Fliers Knock Down 17 Out of Nip Flock Over Guadalcanal

By HAMILTON W. FARON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—(AP)—On ground and in the air American and Allied troops are slamming hard at the Japanese in the South Pacific, inflicting heavy damage on equipment and driving back enemy land forces on New Guinea and Guadalcanal.

The aerial attacks for the most part are of a harassing nature intended apparently to prevent assaults on Allied positions and forestall the bringing up of reinforcements or supplies.

But on the ground, official reports indicate the action is a strong offensive, pushing back the Japanese attempting to recapture Henderson Airfield on Guadalcanal and encircling enemy positions on the northeast coast of New Guinea.

At Oivi on New Guinea, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters reported the enemy had been forced from his main positions with heavy losses.

A flanking movement there by Australian troops has cut off the Japanese retreat and "he is endeavoring to cut his way through to the rear," the Allied high command communique reported.

But American troops are on hand to prevent that maneuver, flown by aerial transport to the vicinity of Buna, 55 miles northeast of the Oivi battleground in the Owen Stanley mountain area.

Simultaneously on New Guinea another force of Allied jungle fighters wiped out enemy troops surrounded south of Gorari.

The aerial warfare again reached beyond the South Pacific to the far north Aleutians and resulted in the shooting down or destruction of 16 enemy planes, and possible damage to warships, cargo vessels and shore installations.

At Kiska, where there has been virtually no action for several weeks, army bombers attacked and damaged two Japanese cargo vessels. Army planes also roared down on Holtz Bay on Attu Island near the end of the Aleutians archipelago and destroyed seven float-equipped Japanese fighting planes. They encountered no opposition.

Twice Allied reconnaissance units in the South Pacific found and attacked destroyers. It was not possible to observe results.

Destruction of 17 Japanese bombers and fighters which tried to attack American positions on Guadalcanal in the Solomon Islands was announced today by the navy.

Seven United States fighters were lost.

Sidelights on the War

MOSCOW, Nov. 12—(AP)—Mass disturbances broke out at Lyon yesterday when German troops marched through in their occupation of the rest of France, and crowds shouted "Down with Laval" and "long live Free France," Tass, official Soviet News Agency, reported today in a dispatch datelined Lausanne, Switzerland. The report said strikes occurred in several factories.

BERLIN (from German broadcasts), Nov. 12—(AP)—German transport planes are engaged every day in bringing wounded Italians from "hedgehog positions" in the Qattara depression in Egypt and landing them at Tobruk, a DNB report said today.

BERLIN (from German broadcasts), Nov. 12—(AP)—Dispatches from Vichy said today that fighting continued yesterday in other parts of French Morocco and Algiers after the capitulation of key cities to American forces. (Allied headquarters announced that Admiral Jean Darlan, once commander of all French forces, had surrendered all French North Africa.)

LONDON, Nov. 12—(AP)—Allied headquarters disclosed today that American and British officers had negotiated with pro-Allied French leaders for weeks before the A. E. F. landed in French North Africa.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—(AP)—The Army disclosed today that Maj. Gen. Mark W. Clark, deputy supreme commander of the Allied forces in French North Africa, had gone secretly by submarine to enemy territory before the North African attack started and opened negotiations with representatives of the French general, Henri Giraud.

BERLIN (from German broadcasts), Nov. 12—(AP)—The German high command said today the 85,000-ton British passenger ship Queen Elizabeth, sister ship of the Queen Mary, had been torpedoed in the North Atlantic. (There was no confirmation of this report from Allied sources, and the German high command did not claim that the ship had been sunk.)

Nazi Attack in Russia Is Obviously Weaker

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW, Nov. 12.—(AP)—A sharp reduction in German air activity over the Stalingrad front was reported today in Soviet military dispatches, which noted that the Nazis were using outdated planes and dropping only small bombs. (This might indicate a shifting of first line air units to other fronts, perhaps southern Europe).

During the past 24 hours, barely two hundred flights over the lines were observed, the newspaper Pravda said, by comparison with a previous daily average of 1,500 to 2,000 daily.

Two companies of Nazi infantry were decimated by Russian gunfire at one point within the city, at another a group of enemy troops was wiped out and in a third place Red Army men surrounded a block of buildings and killed 130 Nazis with hand grenades, the mid-day communique declared.

In the Caucasus the Russians said that their troops had repulsed a tank-supported attack southeast of Nalchik, killing 200 of the enemy.

On the bitterly cold central front west of Moscow Soviet troops were reported to have slain 400 Germans in sharp encounters.

SIX PRETTY OSU CO-EDS CANDIDATES FOR QUEEN

COLUMBUS, Nov. 12—(AP)—Six pretty Ohio State University co-eds launched campaigns today for the title of homecoming queen to reign at ceremonies attending the traditional Ohio State-Michigan football game here Nov. 21. Selected from a field of 12 in a primary election on the campus earlier this week, they are: Rosemary Hickey, Helen Tefft and Patricia Evans of Columbus; Laurel Secrist of Massillon; Virginia Knowlton of Bellefontaine; and Elizabeth Leonard of Pittsburgh.

SAILORS REACH PORT AFTER SHIP TORPEDOED

A BRITISH PORT, Nov. 12—(AP)—Sixteen American sailors, part of the crew of a torpedoed American merchantman, arrived today at this port, suffering from exposure after a week in a lifeboat on the north Atlantic.

They were rescued by a British destroyer. One crewman who had been with them died at sea. A second lifeboat bearing 21 other crewmen remains unreported.

Support of War Effort Is Pledged By C.I.O.

BOSTON, Nov. 12.—(AP)—The CIO convention today hailed the new United Nations offensive with a pledge of all-out support until it ends in the heart of Germany and gave unqualified support to Harry Bridges, west coast longshoremen's leader, in his fight against deportation.

Only two speeches preceded unanimous approval of the "second front" measure, which declared that "we call upon our commander-in-chief to make any demand and any request of labor and we pledge ourselves to give everything we can in fighting men, in production, in money and in patriotism to enable the United Nations to smash forward into Europe until our drive ends in the heart of Germany and the military destruction of the Fascist Axis has been achieved."

FLAG RAISING AT WAR PLANT ARMISTICE DAY

'Old Glory' Is Presented To Aeronautical Co. by Legionnaires

An inspiring patriotic event of Armistice Day in Washington C. H. was the impressive presentation of a large American Flag by Paul H. Hughey Post to The Aeronautical Products, Inc., and raising the flag on the large flagpole recently erected on the lawn in front of the big plant of the company on South Fayette Street.

For the first time in weeks work at the plant was suspended. The workers of the outgoing and incoming shifts assembled with a sizeable crowd of other citizens and members of Paul H. Hughey Post, American Legion, for the ceremonies amplified by the H. E. Daugherty loud speaker system.

A platform decorated with red, white and blue bunting had been erected on the lawn in front of the plant, near the flagpole where the presentation was made at 4 P. M.

Herbert Wilson, commander of Paul H. Hughey Post, presided, and introduced the following officials of the Aeronautical Products, Inc.: President Alfred Jackson; Vice President Charles Layman; Treasurer Byron M. Layman; Secretary M. J. Whitfield; Plant Engineer G. H. Sorensen and Plant Manager Leo P. Fedigan.

Commander Wilson then introduced Howard Fogle, who presented the flag to President Jackson, and stated that it is the flag that is to save the world for free people.

President Jackson took the flag and speaking briefly expressed his thanks and declared it was the happiest moment of his life. He pledged the facilities of the big plant to help preserve and protect the flag and the freedom for which it stands.

Then a committee of Legionnaires and Jackson attached the flag to the rope and as it was slowly hoisted to the breeze the WHS band played "The Star Spangled Banner." The band had previously played several patriotic selections.

Officials of the API expressed their deep appreciation of the gift of the flag and its presentation by Paul H. Hughey Post on the important national holiday.

DICKERSON CASE ENDS ABRUPTLY

Nolle Prosequi Entered to Indictment

The case of Ohio against Roy C. Dickerson, ended abruptly before Judge Frank M. Clevenger of Clinton County, in Common Pleas Court here Thursday morning, when the six-year-old Millwood girl involved in the case failed to qualify as a witness, by not realizing the meaning of the oath.

Dickerson was arrested by police on an attempted criminal attack charge, and the grand jury indicted him on a charge of assault with no intent to rape.

The defense attorneys, W. S. Paxson and Ray R. Maddox, asked that an outside judge be named to hear the case without a jury and Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt named Judge Clevenger to sit in the case.

When the little girl involved in the case failed to qualify as a witness, and other witnesses had little to offer to sustain the charges, Acting Prosecutor Charles S. Hire entered a nolle prosequi to the indictment, and the case ended.

ARMISTICE DAY OBSERVED BY WAR VETERANS

Two Local Organizations Hold Special Services at War Memorial

Paul H. Hughey Post of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled Veterans and auxiliaries, observed Armistice Day with special ceremonies, including the honoring of the Fayette County dead in the first World War whose names appear on the Fayette County Memorial on the Court House lawn.

In the morning, short addresses were made by Legionnaires at the various schools. W. W. Montgomery speaking at Rose Avenue, Robert Willis at Eastside; Captain W. B. Hyer at Sunnyside, Richard Willis at Cherry Hill.

The American Legion presented the annual Armistice Day program at Washington High School. A. B. Murray, superintendent, introduced the commander, Herbert Wilson, who was in charge of the program of the Legion and Women's Auxiliary Corps.

Prayer was offered by the chaplain, George B. Parkin, followed by a medley of "You're A Grand Old Flag," and "This is Worth Fighting For," by the Girls Triple Trio, accompanied by Mrs. Ruth Fitzwater.

The Washington High School Band conducted by Paul Fitzwater played "You're in the Army Now," "Artillery Song," "Marines Hymn" and "Anchors Aweigh," dedicated to the men in service.

Adjutant R. B. Tharpe introduced the speaker R. R. Bingham of Columbus, who spoke of the obligation of high school students to preserve liberty after the war. He also told the student body that this Armistice day "when we were in the middle of the most horrible conflict of all times must be a day of inspiration and not frustration" and in closing he said, "we must keep America first and have no danger of one faction against another."

In closing the student body sang the "Star Spangled Banner."

At 6:30 P. M., Special Weapons Company, Ohio State Guard, the Disabled Veterans organization, Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Ladies Auxiliary, performed their ceremonies at the memorial on the Court House lawn.

Special Weapons Company, commanded by Capt. W. B. Hyer, led by the V.F.W. colors, the Ladies Auxiliary and the Veterans marched from the armory to the Memorial where services were held by the Veterans and Auxiliary, with the guard company standing at attention.

A reading, "Keep the Faith," by Commander Howard Burnett and the V.F.W. ritualistic ceremony was carried out by Commander Burnett, the Auxiliary President Mrs. Mabel Whitmer, and the Veterans. After the salute to the fallen comrades and the sounding of taps by Robert Parrett, the organizations returned to the armory in this same marching formations where a supper was served by the Ladies Auxiliary to about 150 persons including several soldiers of World War No. 2 home on furlough.

The large auditorium of the armory was an ideal place for the supper and the entertainment that followed. Long tables in the shape of a V, decorated in red and white with red, white and blue candles in crystal holders, decorated the tables.

The social hour was spent in the singing of old war songs and popular melodies, after which the crowd was entertained by Johnny Godfrey and Buddy Carr Badgley accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Godfrey on the piano, in several tap dancing numbers.

A roller skating trio including Floyd Miller, Miss Marjory Beller and Miss Cora Mae Radebaugh also accompanied by Miss Godfrey performed in several numbers. Miller also did several special and fancy skating numbers for which he received much applause.

Paul M. Hughey Post, also presented a flag to the Aeronautical Product company, with special ceremonies, at 4 P. M., and at 8 P. M. the Legionnaires, headed by the Washington C. H. High School Band marched to the War Memorial on the Court House lawn and carried out ritualistic services, honoring the dead. Commander Herbert Wilson was in charge of the ceremonies at the memorial, and a salute to the dead and taps ended the tribute.

Following the visitation to the memorial, the Legionnaires returned to Memorial Hall and enjoyed a delicious supper, prepared under direction of Emmit Hays.

REQUEST MADE BY ENGINEER TURNED DOWN

No Further Specifications For Disposal Plant Wanted Now

At the regular session of City Council, Wednesday night, a request of Engineer Paul A. Uhlmann, of Columbus, for permission to proceed with detailed plans and specifications for the complete addition to the sewage disposal plant was turned down.

Uhlmann, in a lengthy letter, set forth that inasmuch as work on the project was held in abeyance due to inability to obtain critical materials last spring, and that there would probably be a rush for such projects immediately after the war, the city would be in line for first consideration by the government if the plans were complete.

City Manager Edwin Ducey stated that he would not recommend such action now, which would cost several thousands of dallors, because plans for the first unit of the project had been made and that if necessary it could be started while plans for the remainder were being formulated.

He also stated that after the war the plans as originally planned might not be what the city would require to meet the demands made upon it.

Council instructed the clerk to decline the request of the engineer, who had made the preliminary plans and specifications for the addition to the disposal plant.

City Manager Ducey also announced that he had a letter from G. Taylor Evans, vice president and general manager of the Ohio Water Service Company, stating that he would be in this part of Ohio around November 16, and would be glad to meet the committee of Council which had been named to confer with him regarding a price at which the company would sell the plant here.

Lions to Help Auction Off Football for Bonds

When high school officials decided to auction the football which the Blue Lions have used in the victorious games against Greenfield, Dayton, Fairmont and Bexley they had no idea what a stir it would create. This, they frankly admitted the day after the plan was announced.

So, in view of the growing interest, Principal W. F. Rettig said an offer from the Lions Club to help was accepted. The Lions, to be appointed from among volunteers by the president, John Sagar, will help the auctioneer—Frank E. Ellis in all probability—spot the bidders. There is nothing to keep the helpers from bidding, either, it was pointed out.

The ball, steeped in sentiment and tradition, will be auctioned between halves of the game with Circleville's Tigers at Gardner Park Friday night. The high bidder will get the ball and when he lays down the cash he also will get a receipt for a rebate in the full amount in War Bonds with the odd change in War Stamps. In the last analysis, the ball merely goes to the best War Bond buyer of the evening.

DR. JAS. F. WILSON MOVES TO MICHIGAN

Three-county District Health Department To Be Headed

Dr. James F. Wilson, who resigned as health commissioner of Fayette County after having served in that position for 16 years, today was en route to his new home in Rogers City, Mich., far up on the shore of Lake Huron.

Dr. Wilson submitted his resignation unexpectedly in September with a charge that "playing politics" by other county officials had interferred with the conduct of the health department. Later he said that his decision to step out also was influenced by Mrs. Wilson's health. He said he felt that the climate farther north would be beneficial.

In Rogers City, Dr. Wilson will continue in public health work, he said, as head of the health department of a three-county district.

The county board of health has given no indication of when it will appoint a new commissioner to fill Dr. Wilson's shoes. Meanwhile the office routine is being carried on by the regular personnel.

Name Famous U.S. Marine Stands Like That at "WAKE ISLAND" . . . Prizes!

Here's your last chance to win $10.00 in War Stamps. See Paramount's "Wake Island," with Brian Donlevy, Macdonald Carey and Robert Preston, opening Sunday at the State Theatre.

If you've kept up with us, you know that the Record-Herald and the State Theatre are sponsoring a "Wake Island" Contest with $10.00 in War Stamps to readers who name the four famous U. S. Marine stands pictured. Read the rules printed herewith to fully acquaint yourself with the facts.

Here are a few hints to help you identify the stand in today's installment. The uniforms of the men should set the date of the war in which the battle was fought. The locale is a famous wood in France, and the battle is said by many strategists to have been the turning-point of the war.

RULES--

1. Beginning today and for three additional days, the Record-Herald and the State Theatre ,celebrating the arrival of Paramount's dramatic re-enactment, "Wake Island," with Brian Donlevy, Macdonald Carey and Robert Preston, on Sunday, will provide an opportunity for you to win one of War Stamp prizes.
2. Contestants are asked to name the famous U. S. Marine stand pictured in each of the four installments. There'll be hints in the accompanying stories.
3. When you have answered all four—and not before—paste them up on one side of a large sheet of paper, and mail your entry to the "Wake Island" Contest Editor, Record-Herald, city. All entries should be postmarked not later than Friday. Decision of the judges shall be final.

COUPON

The name of the famous U. S. Marine stand pictured in today's installment of the "Wake Island" Contest is:

ASK RED CROSS IN COUNTY FOR 400 KIT BAGS

Assistance Is Needed To Complete Task Given Fayette Chapter

Fayette County Chapter of the American Red Cross has been asked to furnish 400 kit bags for the fighting men of America who go overseas and this work will start soon, it is indicated by Miss Edith Gardner, production chairman of the local chapter.

Between 300 and 400 chapters have been working on these bags the past two months, but the output has been insufficient to meet demands, and thousands more have been requested by the War Department.

Since the needs and well being of the men in Service is of paramount importance, Fayette County Chapter would like to fill its quoto as soon as materials arrive. Other groups, lodges, organizations and many individuals will want to have a share in this special project to serve the Armed Forces, so they are being given the privilege and opportunity to join in this service. Many who have been knitting when wool was plentiful can turn their hands to making kit bags. Shut-in's will enjoy taking part in the national war effort.

It costs only $1 to fill one bag. There is a standard list of articles furnished by the war department, which each bag must contain.

Eleven inches wide by fourteen inches deep, these finished bags of olive drab, will hold: small soap box and soap, deck of playing cards, packages of cigarets or smoking tobacco and cigaret papers, shoe polishing cloth, small pencil with cap, package of envelopes and paper, package of chewing gum, pair of tan shoelaces, waterproof matchbox, package of double-edge razor blades, sewing case or "housewife."

Today this "housewife" is one of the fighting man's most cherished possession when he is on foreign duty. It is a khaki colored leatherette (or material can be used) folding case, stamped with the U. S. crest, and fastened with a snap button. Containing thread for all purposes, needles, safety pins, and buttons —three each of five different sizes, it is a friend in need.

Since all bags must be uniform and weight just 1 1-2 pounds, the articles are ordered wholesale quantities by Red Cross Chapters and made available to any group or individual wishing to fill them. All material and tape is furnished by the Red Cross. A small card is tucked into the kit bag with a message from individuals or organizations filling the bag.

Miss Gardner said: "At no time has the Red Cross failed to respond to any request that will make the American soldier happier and more comfortable.

"It is our job here and now to accept and fill our quota that no man whether soldier or marine may go to other lands to fight for us without this small gift and a word of cheer as he leaves our shores. Call 22401, Red Cross Headquarters, and let us know how many bags your group would like to make or the number of bags your class, lodge or organization would like to be responsible for filling."

Not everybody with a dollar to spare can shoot a gun straight—but everybody can shoot straight to the bank and buy War Bonds. Buy your 10% every pay day.

SAVE WAR TIME! If you or members of your family are engaged in war work you will surely welcome the convenience of Flako. Nothing to do but just add water, roll and bake. And Flako always turns out light and flaky pie crusts because the ingredients are precision-mixed and of finest quality.

Another way to save war time. Just add egg and milk.

A QUESTION ANSWERED

This question often is being asked: "Will private enterprise exist after the war?"

Private business and private property interests have been in worse shape than they are now. After the Civil War it seemed very doubtful whether the re-United States or private enterprise would ever recover and function normally again. Wildcat and phoney money flooded the North and South, and most of it was worthless. The Southern States repudiated their debts, and even Minnesota paid only 50 cents on the dollar in settling its railroad bonds.

Private enterprise scrapped the swords and beat them into ploughshares in the late 1860's. But the stricken nation soon discovered telephones, incandescent lights, linotypes, photo-films, half-tone engravings, plow disks and undreamed of inventions and miracles in science.

Private enterprise has always led the way for the preservation of Democratic government, and it will continue to do so.

A great network of highways has spread over our country since World War I, and millions of people have ridden out in their own automobiles to see their own country. Voices now speak to us in our homes from all over the world. Flying machines circle the world in a few days. Loud-speakers are in general use. Talking moving pictures show us everything in the natural colors. Rubber tires were brought to near perfection after the last war just as synthetic tires are being manufactured today. We have Diesel engines, cooling systems, electrical refrigeration, stainless steel, fertilizers, dyes, rayon, cellulose lacquers, pushbutton elevators, and tens of thousands of new and important inventions and scientific discoveries. They are familiar to all of us and have been accepted as quite the right articles by the American people. Our own people are the workers who make all these articles, and our people are the consumers of all these products. Our captains in private enterprise develop the jobs and meet the payrolls. It's all a sort of partnership.

The American people discard obsolete articles and there is nothing that is more obsolete than a war when it is over. Military rule exists for emergencies, and business gives full time to the emergency plans for victory.

Private initiative is a condition and not a theory. At present this initiative has a big special job on is hands and it is meeting all challenges.

Do you remember that day in November, 1918, when the World War came to an end? The battle cry of the whole population changed and the people agreed that we must "get back to normal" conditions.

Do you remember how business prospered, how new opportunities unfolded, how political rules and methods were revised: how private initiative and enterprise were recalled to the drivers seats?

In the past century private business slumped and suffered for about 10 years when there were wars. Then it recovered its losses and forged steadily ahead the other 90 years.

The answer is the same today as it was 17 years ago when the editors endorsed Calvin Coolidge's statement that "the business of America is business."

Yes, private enterprise will exist! As for the government; it is as true today as it was when Grover Cleveland declared in a message to Congress that the government was "but an instrumentality by which the people's affairs should be conducted upon business principles regulated by the public needs."

Pigs Work His Way Through College

FORT COLLINS, Colo.—From a financial standpoint, it begins to appear that Lynn M. Parrott's college education is assured, thanks to two pigs. Parrott bought the pigs in 1940. By the time he entered college this year he had 100 hogs and pigs and had sold 24 hogs—and 24 good hogs, right now, bring a neat sum.

Servical Rib a Rare and Strange Anomaly

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

ONE OF my correspondents, for some reason that remains shadowy and obscure, has asked me to tell something about cervical rib. He rather seemed to doubt whether there is such a thing.

Well, there is, although it must interest very few people personally. It is of general interest only because it is in the nature of a curiosity.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

The first rib in all properly constructed people arises from the first thoracic, or chest, vertebra. There are twelve ribs, one for each of the thoracic vertebrae. Below the thoracic vertebrae are the lumbar vertebrae, and above them are the cervical vertebrae, or the vertebrae in the neck. Occasionally, as an abnormal form of development, a rib arises from the last cervical vertebra, and the person in whom this occurs has thirteen vertebrae.

A cervical rib may cause symptoms by pressure on the large nerve flexus which emerges from the spine at this point and supplies the arm, or from pressure and dislocation of a blood vessel of which there are many also in this region.

Case Histories

But the chances are that no symptoms sufficient to bother the possessor of one of these curiosities will ever arise, and then only if the subject does some special kind of work or engages in an unusual form of muscular movement. One of my patients noticed it first when his father decided he was old enough to go hunting. He toted a gun on his shoulder all day and this resulted in pain and numbness in his arm, which was easily associated with a cervical rib.

Another took up violin lessons at the behest, indeed the command of his mother. His attraction to the violin was nil, and it was only because his mother's father had been a violinist that she insisted on the lessons. As soon as he started lessons, he began to have a pain in the arm.

At first his mother naturally thought he was faking, but just to settle things she consented to a medical examination; the cervical rib was found and the mother was firmly persuaded her son should not attempt the violin. I believe that boy is the most grateful patient I ever had. He cannot even bear to hear a violin played nowadays, and though time has passed, he sends me a Christmas card every year, with a violin drawn thereon.

It will be seen from these two case histories that the symptoms of cervical rib do not begin to manifest themselves, if at all, until adolescence.

Symptoms

Symptoms—when they do occur—can be divided into nervous or circulatory, depending on whether the rib presses on or interferes with the action of nerves or blood vessels. Among the nervous symptoms are dilated pupil on one side, hoarseness due to pressure on the laryngeal nerve, sweating of the face on one side, numbness, pain or paralysis of the arm.

The circulatory disturbances are usually shown by the arm flushing and getting painfully congested when hanging down or when hard work is done. Cold weather also brings these symptoms on.

A cervical rib can be removed surgically, but usually the symptoms are so slight that the patient would rather stand them than take the risk.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

H. S. B.:—Are watermelon and cantaloupe harmful to a diabetic?

Answer: No food in itself is against or harmful to a diabetic—only the amount of starches taken in. If your starch consumption allows you a slice of watermelon or cantaloupe, they will do no harm.

J. H. C.:—Is it true that eating coffee grounds or other small things can cause appendicitis?

Answer: No, nothing that is eaten causes appendicitis. About the time of the Chicago World's Fair there was a belief that grape seeds caused appendicitis. This rumor died soon after and I had thought it stayed dead.

CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX

A SURGE of joy went through Mary as she realized she had reached the end of her quest. She had found Bruce Martin! If he would only listen to her now!

Joe Banks was tapping her arm with his stubby finger. "Hey—you'll have to excuse me for a minute, kid."

Mary nodded. That was lucky, she mused as Joe moved off. She had forgotten him entirely, and it was better he didn't meet Bruce. She walked hurriedly down the length of the bar. There was an empty stool beside Bruce, and she climbed upon it. She had to touch his arm before he'd turn her way.

"Remember me?" she smiled.

He stared at her from blank, morbid eyes that gradually focused into disapproval. "What are you doing here?"

"Hunting for you," Mary said candidly. "It's bad luck to drink alone, isn't it?"

"That wouldn't affect me." He was about as low as he could go tonight, too low even for fury or resentment.

"Why did you take the plane up?" Mary asked calmly. She didn't expect an answer, but he gave her one in the absent, dispassionate tone of one removed from the situation.

"I wanted to think." He raised his glass and drained it, then set it down with a mirthless chuckle. "My reason didn't satisfy Danver."

"Maybe I can talk to him," Mary thought aloud.

"Don't bother, Redhead." He pushed his glass toward a passing bartender and pantomimed his order. "I'm through."

The smoky room was making Mary's eyes sting and her throat ache, but she went on, pleading desperately.

"Don't walk out now! They'll arrest you for sabotage if you run away! Stay just a little longer. They're going to break up the ring—please, Bruce!"

He turned away from her irritably. "For heaven's sake, Redhead, stop following me around and crying over me! Go home!" He turned back as he heard her jump from the stool onto the floor.

She faced him with blazing eyes. "I'm not crying!"

He laughed abruptly. "Wow!" there's my little firebird again!"

She leaned across the stool to say in a quiet, firm voice, "I'm just trying to tell you—"

"Mary!"

She turned around at the raucous hail to see Joe Banks swaggering through the barroom toward her. Bruce regarded the coarse, drunken, heavy-set man with disgust.

"Did you come with—that?" he demanded.

"Yes," Mary said shortly.

"Well, you're not going home with it," Bruce Martin snorted.

Mary thrilled to the words. But at that moment, Joe Banks was stopped. Four men had come in from the tap room and crossed to intercept him. Two of them were tough-looking yeggs, the third was bald and fat and the other a good-looking, well-dressed man of 47 or 48, with slow, careful movements. They grouped around Joe Banks and talked to him in low voices. They were definitely displeased that he was here, and Joe was frightened.

Bruce stepped from his tool, took Mary's arm. "Come on," he said gruffly, "he's talking to his friends. He'll forget about you."

But Mary pulled free. "I want to meet his friends," she said with a determined little smile. "Good night." She had slipped away before he could reach for her again.

Bruce stared after her in amazement. He could have sworn she didn't want to go home with that stupid, drunken lummox a moment before. And he had felt her tremble as she watched the four men meet and talk to Joe Banks. But her cool goodby, leaving him flat for her escort—she must have changed her mind

He paid for his drinks, watching the group's reaction to Mary. She was laughing, chattering to them—like a little fool, Bruce thought darkly. What was wrong with her? What was so attractive about those five thugs? They were all moving toward the door now, her escort's hand on Mary's arm, possessively guiding her ahead of the others. So that's the kind of a kid she was! Bruce jeered inwardly.

He crossed to get his coat and hat and put them on. He was suddenly sick of the place. Might as well go home.

The cold breeze off the ocean felt good as he went out the door and around the side of the long, low shack for his car. He saw the men getting into theirs. As he drove back toward the highway, he noticed their dark green sedan ahead of him, going up the coast road.

Involuntarily he kept them in sight, musing bitterly on them. Nice playmates for a kid like the Redhead! She wouldn't do herself any good fooling around with them and that was a cinch.

The green sedan speeded up. Absently, Bruce followed. Driving was good after an evening like he's had. He felt cold, detached, with an unfeeling exhilaration. Liquor was a thing to fall back on when they kept you from flying, a poor substitute, but better than nothing.

The coast road turned inland, left the lights of the city behind. The green sedan was really stepping! Bruce grinned absently as he glanced at his speedometer. He pushed down on his own accelerator. Good old Susie. She could pass any car on the road.

There was almost no traffic now. Except for the night trucking lines, Bruce and the green sedan had the highway to themselves. The sedan's tail light was a speeding beacon, beckoning him on through the miles of coastland. He drove on and on—might as well. He had no place to go and all the time in the world to go in.

He had no idea of the consternation his whim was causing in the green sedan ahead. The four men were getting stiff necks from watching their pursuer through the back window. Blame was being bandied about among them. It fastened once on Joe Banks. What did the fool mean, anyway, going soft on a smart redhead from the plant?

"And bring her there—of all places!"

"The fat man consoled, "Don't worry about her, chief. She's dizzy. She didn't know where she was."

"Yeah, you think everybody's dizzy but you," the chief bridled. "And I suppose you think that car's following us for its health." He turned to one of the yeggs, driving. "Turn off at the next road and go up over that hill. If he follows us . . ."

Bruce stepped on his brakes as the car ahead swerved sharply off onto the narrow hill road. Then he turned after them. He had had a sudden impulse to follow the lugs, track them to their lair, and tell Mary all about them. Poor little nut. If she didn't have any more sense than this in picking her friends she'd end up in plenty of trouble!

The road was growing steeper now, winding through the narrow pass in the hills toward the valley beyond. Bruce felt that the sedan was trying to draw away. Let 'em try it! He swung around a curve and into a straight stretch of hill road, and shoved his accelerator to the floor. The car roared ahead for a hundred yards, then suddenly lifted with a violent concussion! As the car whirled in a wild circle, Bruce jerked desperately at the wheel. It was useless—the car was out of control! He slammed on the brakes, but the car was already plunging like a mad thing toward the edge of the narrow road!

There's No Coffee on Solomons Either

SAN FRANCISCO-The waitr was firm in his refusal to serve a second cup of coffee even though the customer wore a Marine Corps uniform

"You're lucky to get one cup," the customer was told.

The man in the Marine Corps uniform smiled.

"Maybe I am," he said. "Sorry. I was just trying to catch up."

The man and his companions, were U.S. Marine Corps parachutist captains--some of the hundreds of heroes of the Solomon Islands battle. They had just arrived from Guadalcanal.

The coffee drinker was Captain James H. Myers, Jr., 32, former Toledo, Ohio, businessman; his companions were Captain P. N. Densman, 26-year-old Toledo man; and Captain W. J. McKennan, 25, square-jawed Marine Corps officer from Herkimer, N. Y., who carries several pieces of shrapnel as his memento of the Solomons.

Captain Myers said coffee was a very scarce article when he left the Solomons.

The parachutist officers, here on leave, told of constant Jap bombing attacks on Guadalcanal.

"Sleeping in slit trenches sometimes with only sparse rations and light blankets to cover them, these Marines are taking a punishment the American people cannot comprehend," declared Captain McKennan.

The officers characterized the Japanese soldier as a fighter who practices "treachery beyond human conception."

"They have utter contempt for the white man and still will gladly die rather than be taken prisoner," McKennan said.

He related that in several instances Japs had attacked tanks with nothing but clubs.

"A Jap is not civilized," was the trio's consensus.

Washington at a Glance

By Charles P. Stewart

WASHINGTON — That a large number of military eligibles are breaking into the government civil service or into various supposedly indispensible industrial jobs, or that they're trying to do so anyway, in order to escape conscription as fighters, is a charge I frequently hear made and decidedly don't believe in.

It may be true in an occasional case, but, as a general proposition, all indications are exactly contrariwise.

Plenty of capable young farm hands, in particular, want to join our armed forces, who can't get themselves accepted. Their work on the land, providing grub for our uniformed warriors, is more valuable than they'd be as actual scrappers.

Consequently our manpower commission appealed to our Army and Navy authorities to reject 'em when they try to enlist. The treasury's procurement division also was asked to instruct contractors not to employ skilled dairy, livestock and poultry workers without the manpower outfit's approval.

It's a peculiar situation in which an able-bodied, pugnacious lad, with a war available, and anxious to do his share in it, not only is passed up as a conscript, but is turned down as a volunteer, even.

Young farmers, in short virtually have to be conscripted for farming.

A hand in some war producing factory is in a somewhat different classification.

He makes better money than a farm boy. He probably is no more afraid of being shot at than the country kid is. He's liable to be strongly tempted to stay home, however, on account of financial considerations. Indeed, it's a ground upon which the farm youth may be tempted from his livestock, hens and dairying into city employment. The manpower commission has to bear that in mind and freeze the chap onto the soil for the duration.

Economists are speculating considerably as to what'll happen to agriculture when the conflict's over.

They're curious also as to what'll happen to agriculture to urban labor, but they don't believe that'll be so urgent an issue.

They reckon that urban industry will have a tremendously accumulated demand to meet. It'll have piled up indefinitely while the fight's raged. There doubtless will be a bothersome interval of readjustment while things are getting back to a peacetime basis, but it'll progress as rapidly as the mechanics of it permit. Agriculture, though, it's calculated, will find itself overdone and overmanned. Just how rapidly it'll be able to re-adapt itself to peacetime conditions is a matter of guesswork.

A bird who has been intensively trained in a war machinery plain shouldn't have much difficulty in switching to peace's mechanical technique.

The supply of farm hands, though, may prove to be excessive, and it'll take those guys some little time to acquire mechanical education. Otherwise than agriculturally, they'll have been kept suppressed, and they will be super-abundant on the industrial labor market.

Just now there's a famine in farm hands.

A New "Normalcy"

Then everybody who's conscripted, at present, into it, will be a shark at it—and no good for anything else, until he's learned a new business.

We talk about the world getting back to normalcy after the war's over.

According to the economists, it'll get back to normalcy, but it'll be an entirely different sort of normalcy from anything we've known hitherto.

They don't profess to know exactly what it'll resemble.

They don't profess to know how folk will like it or not, either.

The next generation will adapt itself. To that epoch it'll seem natural, if not satisfactory.

We few left-overs may consider it pretty tiresome.

There can't be any genuine, general, permanent improvement, though.

God wouldn't have permitted things to have fussed along as they have, up to date, if he'd intended otherwise.

This doubtless is a good thing, somehow.

It certainly wouldn't have been allowed to string out, as it has hitherto, if Infinity had deemed it undesirable.

HUSBANDS AND WIVES TRADE TWICE A WEEK

Share-the-cost Plan Goes Beyond Normal Limits.

ELIZABETH N. J., Nov. 12—(AP)—Two nights a week two husbands exchanged wives in their joint home, one of the wives related yesterday in an affidavit filed in chancery court.

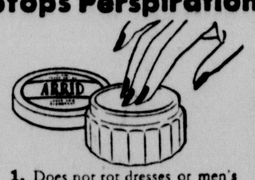

The couples were living on a share-the-cost plan in Metuchen, Mrs. Gladys Jensen related in her affidavit an application to answer a divorce action brought against her by Siegfred Jensen of Raritan Township.

From April to December of last year, Jensen and Howard Caswell exchanged wives periodically, she said. A divorce decree separating Caswell and his wife, Marion, became final last July.

It all started one night while the two couples were crowded around a window watching a fire outside, the affidavit stated. When the two couples prepared to return to bed, the exchange of wives for the remainder of the night was suggested and approved.

Mrs. Jensen said that Caswell took her to the movies several times while her husband stayed at home with Mrs. Caswell.

URGES PUBLIC TO HELP LIFT POSTAL BURDEN

Record Volume of Christmas Mail Is Looming for Department

A direct appeal is being made to the public to assist in every way possible to make the record-breaking volume of Christmas mail easier to handle and by mailing their Christmas packages earlier.

Postmaster W. E. Passmore has just received from the Postoffice Department, the following statement addressed to the public generally:

"The Post Office Department now is starting the most gigantic task in its history--the movement of a deluge of Christmas parcels, cards and letters while maintaining the regular flow of millions of pieces of mail daily to and from our armed forces all over the world.

"Indications are that the volume of Christmas mail will be the largest on record. Already in September, latest month for which figures are available, retail sales had reached a level second only to the record month of December, 1941, according to the Department of Commerce. And sales are rising. Such heavy purchases always presage heavy mailings.

"If thousands of our soldiers, sailors, marines and civilian friends are not to be disappointed at Christmas time, the public must cooperate by mailing earlier than ever before and by addressing letters and parcels properly. The best efforts of the Post Office Department alone cannot be enough, in view of wartime difficulties faced by the postal system. The public must assist.

" About 25,000 experienced postal workers already have been taken by the war services. Arrangements are under way to add thousands of temporary personnel to postal staff, but this man power is hard to find and is inexperienced. Facilities of railroads and air lines are heavily taxed by movements of huge quantities of war materials and personnel. Extra trucks are almost impossible to obtain. Winter weather, hampering transportation, is beginning.

"The free-mailing privilege granted to members of the armed forces has raised their mailings some 30 per cent, it is estimated. Expansion of those forces also is adding rapidly to the postal burden.

"The deadline already is past for mailing gifts to Army and Navy personnel overseas with assurance that the parcels will arrive by Christmas. The New York post office reports that in late October, 350,000 such parcels were handled daily in the that office alone.

"The Post Office Department is making strenuous efforts to avoid such a terrific jam as it faced in 1918 under similar conditions, during the First World War. It can succeed in those efforts--and avoid many heartaches for its patrons--if the public will cooperate by mailing early.

600 ACRE FARM CHANGES HANDS AT $110 AN ACRE

Largest Real Estate Deal In Fayette County in Recent Years

The largest farm sale in Fayette County in recent years was consummated when J. M. Willis disposed of his 600-acre estate in Marion and Madison townships, west of Waterloo to Harold W. Cruit, furniture dealer of Chillicothe, who takes possession at once.

The farm formerly known as the Fulton farm, at one time was owned by Humphrey Jones, and on it stands the tallest silo in the world, erected by Jones and which has been in use much of the time since, although rarely completely filled.

The land sold for $110 per acre, and is regarded as one of the most fertile tracts of land in that community.

The tract is one of the largest farms in Fayette County, and the price paid again reflects the advance in price of Fayette County land generally.

Lions Cet Set For Last Game of Season

-Spying-
On Sports
By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Mention boxing "style" to an ordinary fight fan and he may have a vague idea what you're talking about . . . bring it up around the fight mob and you'll find they take it very seriously although explanations usually stop at saying that one fighter is "orthodox" and another isn't. . . . For instance, after Max Schmeling flattened Joe Louis in their first encounter, Joe explained: "I couldn't fight him; he fought me sideways." . . . Later Al Weill figured it out that Arturo Godoy could get along against Louis by ducking down almost to the floor—and it worked.

All In Fun

Employes at a Pittsburgh hotel are telling one about a blown-in-the-bottle grid fan who turned up last Saturday, waving an Ohio State banner and asking the way to the Pitt Stadium. . . Informed that the Pitt-Ohio State tussel was to take place in Columbus, he merely grinned and said, "Oh well, let's have a good time anyhow." . . . Maybe he had the right idea at that, considering how much fun there is in 59-19.

Today's Guest Star

Bob Hooey, Columbus Ohio State Journal: "If Joe Gordon was 'floored' when informed he had been selected as the American League's most valuable player, he probably was knocked out when Judge Landis announced fining the Yankee second baseman $250 for his run in with Umpire Magerkurth in the World Series."

Service Department

Petey Scalzo, former NBA featherweight champ, reports for induction at Camp Upton, N. Y., today . . . and Jackie Fields, ex-welterweight boss, is at Camp Meade, Md. . . When Lieut. T. Suffern Tailer, chairman of the officers' athletic committee at the Norfolk Naval Training Station, sent out a questionnaire on what activities the officers preferred, 340 out of 501 voted for informal pistol and rifle shooting and only 95 favored Tommy's favorite sport, golf.

Dairymaids Take 2 from Airsteppers

Light's Dairymaids edged out Craig's Air Steppers by three pins in their Ladies League bowling match on the South Main Street alleys Wednesday night in one of the hottest matches ever rolled there. With the help of a 119 to 83 handicap the Dairymaids took the first and last games but dropped the middle one by such a wide margin, when the Air Steppers turned on the heat, that they almost dropped behind in the total score. The scores, neither individual nor team, were so big but the teams were so evenly matched that the battle drew the evening's spotlight.

The Hawkinson Treaders, with the help of 116 to 58 handicap, matched the achievement of the Dairymaids in their series with the Montgomery Ward girls on adjoining alleys, but they had a much easier time doing it. They took the first and last games but lost the middle tilt by 104 pins when the Air Steppers turned in their best effort.

FRIDAY NIGHT TO BE FINALE FOR 10 SENIORS

Circleville's Tigers To Come Here for Clash That Will Decide SCO Champ

With only one practice remaining in the 1942 football season, the Blue Lions of WHS Wednesday evening, held their last tough drill of the year.

The ten seniors on the team will get their last chance Friday night to show their stuff for the football fans. But if the Lion boosters know the 10 senior boys, they can lay their bets on them without wondering if they will come through with their flag flying.

To some, this game Friday night may be just another game, but to the seniors, it will mean everything. It will be hard for them to put on the blue and white for the last time. Many other boys have felt the same way.

When speaking of sportsmanship or hard fair playing, they can talk to the Lions when they say that. All during the season, the little Lions have played a slam-bang brand of ball.

No one knows what makes that little team get in there and play ball like it does, but here is an idea. For the last three years, those boys on the team have been playing ball together, they have been going to school together and almost all of them "chum" around together. When they get out on the field to play ball they feel at home. They have "team spirit" and that is what it takes to play together, and to play together is what it takes to win a ball game. These ten senior boys have had much to do in helping the squad maintain the spirit that has carried it to seven wins against one defeat in the 1942 football season.

The followers of the team this year have been loyal to the team and to the coaches. Not only have the townspeople been loyal, but the student body, too, has been down at Gardner Park on game nights, giving out those cheers that help a football team play all the harder.

This is the last football game that Katie Knapp and Alma Jane Norris ever will get to lead cheers here. Only dynamic Carol McCoy of the cheer leaders, will be left.

Not much has been said about the wonderful team that the two Lion coaches, Jerry Kissell and George Miraben, have turned out. When they started out for the spring practices, they didn't have much to work with. Many of the boys were green, but with much hard work and constant study on the plays, they popped out of nowhere with a tough and aggressive team. Maybe the football fans don't know the coaches personally. Ask a few of the downtown coaches or the players. They will tell you that they are tops when it comes to football or outside activities. So when you football fans go to the game Friday night, just look the two coaches over and say, those two men really deserve a carload of credit for working so hard with a small squad and making so much out of it. Coaches Kissell and Miraben ran their boys through a blocking, passing, tackling drill and a brief scrimmage.

The ten senior boys who wear the Blue and White on the football field for the last time Friday night are, Captain Bob Allen, Don Harper, Stan Mark, Jr., Perce Mann, Joe Tillett, Paul Shoults, Hunter Morris, Alex Wackman, Marlyn Engle and John Anderson.

Bucks Polish Passing To Use Against Illini

COLUMBUS, Nov. 12—(AP)—With passing still the practice theme, Ohio State tapers off a bit today in its build-up for Saturday's football game with Illinois in Cleveland.

The passers, George Slusser, Paul Sarringhaus and Les Horvath, were slated for plenty of pitching as the Bucks sought to polish up offensive tactics for the contest which will affect the Western Conference title hopes of both teams.

Riding in first place with Illinois and Iowa, Ohio's gridders got no Armistice Day vacation from their football chores. Yesterday they were put through their second rigorous day of action working on defense against Illinois plays and developing their own aerial offense.

Coach Paul Brown stressed passing for two reasons: He wants to give the Bucks a more varied attack and he fears Illinois may use a seven-man line to stop Ohio's powerful ground game. A strong passing attack would force Illinois to shift from the seven-man line to a six-two-two-one or a five-two-three-one defense.

"Too many of our touchdowns have come the hard way—by pounding our heads off," said Brown. "If our air game can be kept sharp we'll go farther—faster."

The Buck players, zipping through the stiff workouts this week, saw in the Illinois contest a chance to redeem themselves for the Wisconsin set-back—the only blot on the Ohio record this season.

Backfieldmen also were giving their ball-handling a lot of attention. Fumbles helped lose the Wisconsin game and Illinois is a notorious ball-stealing outfit.

MATCH GAME CHAMP STEPS DOWN

Holder of the world's match game bowling championship, Ned Day of West Allis, Wis., has relinquished his title to join the U. S. Coast Guard. Day's title thus goes to Johnny Crimmins, veteran Detroit kegler, who ranked No. 1 in the 1941 eliminations held to decide an opponent for Day.

Buck Back Fools Father

Little Les Horvath Went to Ohio State Against Parental Advice and Makes First Team to Boot

CLEVELAND, Nov. 12—(AP)—It's against all the teachings, but Les Horvath got what he wanted by refusing to take parental advice.

What he wanted was a berth on the Ohio State football team, and when he landed as a regular at right halfback his father proudly admitted he had been wrong.

If Les had listened to his male parent, Charles Horvath of suburban Parma, he would have been playing with Ohio Northern instead of the Buckeyes.

Because of Les' size—he weighed only 152 when he entered Ohio State—the father wanted him to enroll in a small college where "he would be reasonably certain of playing on the first team."

"I tried to interest him in Ohio Northern—that's my old school," the father said. "Les wouldn't listen to me and I finally gave up and told him to head for Columbus and be prepared to sit on the bench every Saturday."

But the son remembered another under-sized Buckeye gridder, Tippy Dye, and embarked on a college football career in the big-time. His parents aren't sorry that he refused his father's advice. They've missed only one Ohio State home game in the three years Les has been playing.

TOUGH DEFENSE IS PUT UP BY MIAMI, FLORIDA

Although Twice Beaten, Foes Have Been Held to Average Of Only 93 Yards a Game

By ARNOLD DERTLITZKI

CHICAGO, Nov. 12—(AP)—Tulsa's unbeaten and untied Hurricanes now have a rival for honors as the nation's top defensive team. It's Little Miami of Florida.

The American Football statistical Bureau said today that Miami at first was not regarded as a major team, but that because of its record and opposition, it no longer could be ignored in the national tabulations.

Although beaten twice (by Jacksonville Naval Pre Flight, 14-0, and by North Carolina State, 30), total defense figures show that Miami has held its opponents to an average of 93 yards a game for six contests. Right behind comes Tulsa with 101. Miami has defeated Tampa, St. Louis, Rollins, and Furman and has yet to play Florida, South Carolina and West Virginia.

Tulsa boasted of a 90-yard average until its meeting with Oklahoma A. and M. last week. They not only gave up more ground than usual but also permitted the first touchdown by an opponent, although winning 34-6.

Miami and Tulsa also ran one-two in pass defense where Miami had allowed its foes an average of 28.8 yards a game and Tulsa 34. At rushing defense, where Boston College was far ahead of the field with a 26-yard average, Miami held eighth place with 66 and Tulsa ninth with 67.

Tulsa continued to run first in team passing and punting, but had to give up the lead in total offense to Georgia.

Georgia, paced by Frankie Sinkwich was averaging 433.9 yards a game to Tulsa's 427. Ohio State, out of the 400 class for a week, bounced back with 422 for third place. Then came Missouri 384; Boston College 374; Hardin-Simmons 372 and Texas 359.

The first five leaders in team rushing remained unchanged from last week. Hardin-Simmons led with a 340.7 average. Ohio State had 316, Missouri 304, Texas 279 and Boston College 273.

No. 13 Alley Lucky? Look at the Record

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 12—(AP)—No. 13 unlucky? Not for Milwaukee bowlers!

They are fighting for that starting lane at the Strachota-Regent Alleys these days.

Here's what happened on the 13-14 alleys of the establishment in recent competition in the greater All-Star League, one of Milwaukee's top flight bowling circuits:

Russ Gersonde shot three series of three games each of 753, 822 and 777 on them, for an average of 261-3 for nine games. His 822 is tops in American Bowling Congress sanctioned competition and, incidentally, he is leading his league with a season's average of 227-12.

His Barkow team turned in series of 2,252, 3,518 and 3,568, for a team average of 230-3 for the nine games on the drives. The 3,568 count is the second high in the nation this year, being topped only by a 3,576 score by the Faber Blocks of Teaneck, N. J.

There have been at least 20 games of 700 or better shot in league competition on the alleys this year.

BATTLE FOR TUNISIA STARTS IN AIR WHILE LAND FORCES RUSH IN

ians began occupation of Corsica.

Political echoes persisted. But pro-Nazi Pierre Laval appeared to have prevailed upon the Vichy government to continue its opposition to the Allies.

Amid a welter of conflicting reports and rumors, the future of the main French fleet, long impounded at Toulon, remained a mystery.

Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander of the North American AEF, himself appealed to French Naval crews by radio to "join the United Nations in the fight for freedom" by sailing for Gibraltar.

Marshal Petain's protests against the Axis occupation waned and the Vichy radio announced last night that both he and his cabinet called upon colonials in North Africa to fight the Allies "to the limit . . . in the interests of France and the empire."

But Algeria and Morocco were already secured.

Movement of heavy German forces from the Russian front toward Italy and the Balkans was reported at Ankara, the capital of neutral Turkey.

American and British troops raced eastward across Algeria together—their rear protected in the final capitulation of colonial forces—to meet Axis airmen and marines reported landing on the air fields of Tunisia, French protectorate and one-time pirate state on the seaward salient of western Libya.

Some London observers said the aerial clash might be the greatest of all time. It was apparent that the Allied forces were extending themselves in an effort to reach Tunis the capital, and the nearby naval base of Bizerte and wipe out the invaders before they get established.

Ninety miles northeast of Tunisia across the central Mediterranean lies Sicily, Italian stepping stone for invasion which the Allies may eventually use to reach Italy herself.

A possibility that Marshal Erwin Rommel would try to assemble the remnants of his African Corps in Tunisia was among the angles considered in strategical discussions.

One estimate was that the Axis might put 3,000 of its newest and best planes into the air arena and the United States and Britain would be expected to supply as many or more.

Premier Mussolini's newspaper Il Popolo D'Italia called upon Italians to hold fast, saying they knew that the new phase of the war placed Italy "in the front line."

Across continents, troops were on the move.

GRAIN MARKET NEWS SUMMARY

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Except for gains ranging up to almost a cent a bushel in the rye and corn pits, trading in grain futures was quiet today as dealers awaited announcement of details of the government subsidy program to release sufficient wheat from the ever-normal granary to meet flour requirements.

The government program was expected to relieve a strained situation in the flour trade brought about by complaints of mills in some areas that wheat prices are too high to permit them to sell flour at ceilings.

Good industrial demand for corn and short covering in the rye pit strengthened prices for those cereals.

Wheat closed unchanged to ¼c higher compared with Tuesday, December 1.25⅞-1.26, May 1.28½-⅝; corn ⅛-⅝c higher, December 84⅛c, May 89c; oats unchanged to ⅛c off; rye ⅜-⅝c higher. No sales of soybeans were reported but bid and asked quotations were unchanged to ¾c lower.

DAY'S ACTIVITIES IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—(AP)—War-peace arguments today persisted as the main motivations of an irregular stock market.

News from Africa and other battlefronts continued cheerful for Wall Street but it was beginning to be realized that the conflict still might have a long way to go.

Bonds and commodities were a shade mixed.

Gasoline Pipe Line To Cross Fayctte County

REPORTS STATE IT WILL PASS NORTH OF CITY

Work in Ohio May Start On Trans-Continental Line in December

Reliable reports reaching here indicate that the huge gasoline pipe line being constructed from Texas to the eastern seaboard in an effort to relieve the gasoline situation in the east, will pass through Fayette County and that work on the line in Ohio may start during December.

The information is that the 24-inch pipe will enter Ohio at the Indiana border, pass north of Middletown, cross Clinton County, across Fayette County between Washington C. H. and Jeffersonville, north of New Holland, pass near Williamsport, thence north of Circleville and south of Lancaster.

Division offices will probably be located in Lancaster, according to the information obtainable.

The 1,500-mile line starts at Longview, Texas. A large section of it already has been completed up through Arkansas, the southeastern corner of Missouri, thence across Illinois and Indiana.

While no official announcement has been made regarding the exact line it is to cross in Ohio, the "grapevine" information reaching here indicates that this is the route that will be followed.

So far as known the exact line has not been surveyed, but if the course is followed, this will probably be done in the near future.

The line is being built to carry at least 125,000 barrels of gasoline daily and the flow is expected to be three to four miles per hour.

Already seven contracting companies are at work on the line from Texas to Illinois and another company will do the work across Ohio.

The pipe laying started in August and is expected to be finished into Illinois by December 1.

Huge pumping stations, probably a half score in number, will start pumping oil to the eastern seaboard by January 1, 1943, it is indicated.

The line is being constructed of half inch steel pipe, electrically welded, wrapped in a special coating to preserve it, and the pipe is laid several feet beneath the surface so that it can not be readily disturbed.

Huge trench digging machines are used and winter will be no barrier to cutting the trench to receive the big gasoline pipe.

Work on the 857-mile line from Illinois to the eastern part of the U. S. will be carried on throughout the winter.

Farm owners will be contacted in due time before the work is started across Ohio and Fayette County and as the pipe-line is being built in nearly a straight line as possible it will pass across Fayette County with very few curves, providing the route is not changed.

MEETING CALLED TO PLAN FOR BLACKOUT HERE

Civilian Defense Leaders of County Notified To Make Preparations

A meeting of civilian defense group executives, county, village and township officials in Fayette County and others has been called for November 19, to prepare for a civilian defense "blackout".

With the date of an Ohio statewide "blackout" tentatively set for the first of the coming year, the Fayette County Council of Civilian Defense has been notified by the Ohio State Council of Defense to make immediate preparations so as to be able to participate with the greatest efficiency.

In this connection the state headquarters has instructed the Fayette County Council further that it is imperative that each county in Ohio must complete plans for individual county-wide "blackouts" which must come before the entire state-wide test is made.

"We must be prepared for any eventuality here in the all-important industrial state of Ohio," the letter received from the State Council of Defense says, "and we know that you will make every effort to get your county ready immediately for whatever lies ahead".

To meet this situation the Fayette County Civilian Defense Council has called a meeting for the evening of Thursday, November 19, at eight o'clock in the common pleas court room at the Court House. The mayors of all villages in the county, county commissioners, township trustees, executive directors and various executive heads of civilian defense groups are being asked to report at this meeting for further instructions. Representatives of the Ohio State Council of Defense will meet with this assembly to assist in any way possible with plans.

Before a city or county will be granted permission to hold a trial blackout in the future, in preparation for air raids, it must comply with rigid rules and regulations.

In urging local communities to map plans for county wide blackouts, State Defense Director Ralph H. Stone said the new regulations were formulated when cities, towns and villages of all sizes began applying for permission to hold tests.

Stone declared that authorization for trial blackouts will be given only when the local Citizens' Defense Corps has successfully passed an inspection by representatives of the Ohio State Council of Defense and the Army.

To obtain an inspection, the local defense corps must comply with the following requirements:

Possess a control center with trained staff; a full complement of trained air raid wardens and sufficient air raid warden posts to cover city; sufficient trained auxiliary police to protect city; have trained auxiliary firemen, fire watchers, messengers, drivers' corps and emergency medical units; other units, such as demolition and clearance, road repair, decontamination and nurses' aides, should be organized and the personnel trained.
